While the current COVID 19 disruption may present challenges to the blockchain industry in the short term, it will also unlock new opportunities in the mid and longer-term. Blockchain can play a pivotal role in accelerating post-crisis digital transformation initiatives and solving those problems highlighted in the current system.

Blockchain can be extremely useful in supply chain management, contact tracing, disaster management, Insurance and much more. This BlockJakarta Digital Conference shall shed light on these issues plus the economics of blockchain in the ongoing pandemic.
